pariots," who had sought to brand our bravest and best as "rebeis" and "traitors."

When these "cheap patriots' had "persistently demanded that we disown the convictions bred in our bone, and confess the unrighteeousness of our contents, we rang out our eternal defiance, not in mere words, but gave our answer for all time in the bronze and marble of the stately monuments erected in the midst of our poverty to the filiustrious leaders, whom we had so often followed to victory."

Captain McCabe described the splendid monuments erected in the confederacy to Lee, Jackson, A. P. Hill, and others. Then, with very deep feeling, which was manifestly shared by the large audience as he went on, he said: "Yet another monument must we rear, toosamoniment to commemorate the constancy and devotion of the women of the South."

"It must be reared by the veterans of that glorious army to which we be longed. What these women were to is in these long years of douds and periling the strength of the south."

"It must be reared by the veterans of that glorious army to which we be longed. What these women were to is in these long years of douds and periling with a very passion of grateful remembrace how these women cheered us on our way when foctsore and weary; how they tenderly nursed us when sick and wounded in hospital; how they gave us their agonizing prayer in day of battle."

No patriot maid or matron, famous in Greek or Roman story or in romance of mediaeval chivalry, he declared, were more than peer of those noble women of listl in fortitude and self-abnegation.

But a yet nobler monument than any of those mentioned could, under God, be reared by the humblest veteran and his children after him, "if they should find the lives of those heroes their highest incentive to be fearless, to be constant, to be loyal to the duties that confirming in the lives of those heroes their highest incentive to be fearless, to be constant, to be loyal to the duties that confirming the produced the coverage of the produced the coverage of strengt

DANVILLE, VA., May 10.—(Special.)—
The tobacco warehousemen were agreeably surprised that the inflow of the weed continued into the first week in May. Everybody contends that the crop has been marketed, or very nearly exhausted. Large sales on any day now causes gratification and surprise.

Good wrappers and bright tobacco are scarce, and will continue so until the new crop comes in. An increase in offerings of common and medium leaf and lugs is noted, but much of it is destitute of even a suspicion of color.

Prices continue stiff for good wrappers and cutters, and even common wrappers are higher than they have been. Prices all around are considered to be higher than they have been for several years.

Plants in the bed are growing rapidly in consequence of recent rains.

NOTICE.

Consolidated: Net receipts, 47,305 bales; to France, 5,127 bales; to the Continent, 15,566 bales.

Totals since September 1st: Net receipts, 7,560,542 bales; exports—to Great Britain, 3,256,392 bales; to France, 637,579 bales; to the Continent, 2,520,577 bales.

The cotton market, after opening steady at unchanged prices to an advance of 1 point, showed considerable weakness, under a disposition to liquidate long contracts, the bulls being afraid to trust their position, in view of a possibly disappointing bureau report. Under this pressure the market declined 465 points, but upon the promulgation of the report from Washington the feeling became steadler. There was some disappointment regarding the terms of the bureau report, which last year stated the probable acreage at 93.4 per cent, this being a decrease of 6.6 per cent, his being a descrease of figures until next month, while statisticians at Washington indicated that the acreage question could not be expressed in figures until next month, while stating that the belief of correspondents pointed to a reduction by States of 5 per cent. in Mississippl and the Indian Territory, 8 in Alabama, 9 in Texas, 10 in Arkansas, 11 in South Carolina, 12 in Louisiana, 13 in Georgia, 14 in North Carolina, and 18 in Oklahema. The trade here argued that the report was builish rather than bearish, but that it did not amount to much either one way or the other. The market, soon after its publication, became almost stagnant, with a sagging tendency. The extraordinary sales of spot cotton in Liverpool (29,00) bales), which private cables ascribed to Continental demand, tended to check selling at this point, in connection with favorable reports from Manchester, and continued encouraging accounts from New England. Favorable advices from Southern spot markets added to the caution of short seilers, without energizing speculation on the bull side of the account to any extent UNTIL JUNE 15, 1889, AT 12 O'CLOCK M, at my cflice, in the city of Greenville, S. C., SEALED BIDS WILL BE RECEIVED FOR THIRTY-TWO THOUSAND DOLLARS ($2.90) OF COUPON BONDS, to be issued by the County Board of Commissioners of Greenville county, S. LIVE-STOCK MARKETS.

BALTIMORE, May 9.—Calves—Smooth veal calves continue in fair demand at full quotauons. With receipts running heavier, however, prices are lower. Large, rough stock not so active and salable only by the head. We quote as follows: Strictly choice veals, per pound, 6%6%c.; good veals, per pound, 6%6%c.; rough to good, per head, 34%3.

Sheep and lambs—Receipts of spring lambs are on the increase, both on the wharves and at the drove-yards. Feeling easy, but demand fair for choice fat stock of desirable size, while small, thin or under-weight lambs are discriminated against even at a shade under the general market price. Rough, old sheep also very dull. We quote as follows: Spring lambs, good to choice, 767%c. per bound; poor, small stock, 6%6%c. per pound; sheep, per pound, choice, 4%4c.; good, per head, 35.5934; inferior, per head, 32.5934; old bucks, per head, 33%4.
